Hospitality Network inks deal with Lionsgate for delivery of high-definition movies in select Las Vegas properties

HENDERSON, Nev. – Cox Business Services / Hospitality Network (CBS), the leading provider of in-room guest video and data technology services to the hotel-gaming industry today announced the finalization of an agreement to begin showing high-definition movies in select Las Vegas properties. CBS has been operating under the terms of the agreement and showing high-definition Lionsgate titles since April.

Under the agreement, CBS will offer On DEMAND high-definition versions of recent Lionsgate theatrical titles. Many of these titles are still playing in theaters when they premiere in CBS hotel rooms.

“We’re thrilled at being able to bring high-definition movie content from Lionsgate into guest rooms,” said David Blau, vice president and general manger of CBS. “The enormous difference these high-definition titles make when compared to standard definition movies is incredible. This is really going to improve in-room movie viewing experiences.”

High-definition selections from Lionsgate that have been already been offered or will soon be offered include, “The Descent,” “Crank,” “Employee of the Month,” Akeelah and the Bee,” and “See No Evil.” High-definition movies are crisper and clearer than standard resolution, because they have over five times the information than standard content. Life-like picture quality and digital sound are two major benefits of high-definition that truly change the way people watch movies.

Hospitality Networks offers hotel guests hit movies that are still playing in theaters months before they are available on residential pay-per-view or video. It also provides a variety of independent films to compliment its library of mainstream Hollywood hit movies.
